MEDICAL CERTIFICATE

To examining physician:

Your patient has applied for admission to the Sar-EI Program. If accepted, the applicant will participate in an 18-day work period in Israel. The living accommodations may be spartan: army cots, no summer air-conditioning, minimal heating in winter. The work may involve time in the hot sun, repetitive lifting, bending, and long periods on one's feet. And too, the volunteer must cope with different food, and with social conditions related to living with other volunteers. It is essential that we accept only candidates who are able to withstand such conditions, both physically and psychologically. We must therefore rely on your evaluation to help us decide whether to accept the candidate.
